Your Path on the Tree of Life

Netzach to Hod - Victory to Splendour

"The Chariot shows a handsome prince resplendent with stars - a beautiful being - who manages to control the opposing forces of the sphinxes that draw the chariot purely by the use of his mind - will power. Out of control will is not beautiful. There is an art to imposing your will in a way that is for the good of others and the world. The Chariot prince not only controls emotions and minds but also physical things but he must learn to do it with understanding."

The Chariot comes from victory and is seeking splendour and control through the power of the mind. He controls the opposing forces of life solely through the use of will. The Chariot is an aggressive, forceful character. He has an understanding of instinct and trusts his impulses. Unlike the Star he is not trying to control or manipulate the Cosmos, only the earthly physical things but he can only use his mind. Is he a fair ruler and master?

Personality Profile

Personality types are determined on the basis of paired opposites.

Extroversion & Introversion

Sensing & iNtuition

Thinking & Feeling

Judging & Perceiving

If the scores for these behaviours are equal then a profile type will include a B for Balanced. Many people can switch comfortably from one form of behaviour to another and are quite comfortable in either mode. Usually the balance will be tipped in one direction by the energy of your name or another determining factor. Check out the keywords for all forms of the Profile Type and your personal introspection will usually determine which is the more comfortable or dominant behaviour.

Your Personality Profile type is:

INTP

Introversion Intuition Thinking Perceiving

Keywords

INTP - Thinker, Architect, Designer, Theoriser

Introversion

Extroversion & Introversion

Extroversion suggests that energy is derived from exposure to the outer world as opposed to Introversion that is energised by quiet times in the inner world. An extroverted person will be drained of energy if forced to spend too much time in an introverted setting and likewise an introverted person will quickly drain if exposed too long to an extroverted setting. Some people will require a balanced mix of both.

Intuition

Sensing & Intuiting

Sensing and Intuition both relate to external sources of information and data gathering. Sensing refers to the use of the five senses and our interaction with the manifest, material world - this is physical. Intuition is influenced by patterns and subtle flows of information that may be termed "inspiration". We tend to display dominant behaviour either one way or the other. If our scores are equal then we are seen to be reasonably balanced. Again no one uses one way all the time - it is more about using both at different times but we will tend to be dominant in one way. It is important to repeat here that both qualities are deriving information from an external source. One is in the physical world and the other is in the non-physical world.

Thinking

Thinking & Feeling

Thinking and Feeling both relate to energy that is deployed internally within ourselves. Thinking may be seen as more objective than Feeling whereas Feeling is more subjective. We tend to be dominant in one way or the other but we all feel and we all think. Some of us will have scores that suggest we are balanced. It is important to repeat here that both qualities are using internal energies. One is objective and the other is subjective.

Perceiving

Judging & Perceiving

Judging and Perceiving relate to what we do with the data that we have gathered from our external and internal sources. Other words for this opposing pair are Structured or Flexible. Those who lean more dominantly towards Judging are more likely to be decisive and structured. Perceiving people are more accepting of difference and flexible. Again we use both forms but tend to be more like one than the other.

Another set of terms for this pair is divergent and convergent. Our schooling system tends to train us in convergent thinking - that is - here is a sum - what is the single correct answer? Divergent thinking teaches us to consider a single issue and come up with a dozen different possible outcomes. A Judging personality will tend to be dominantly convergent in their thinking and will like to narrow it down to one answer. A Perceiving personality will tend to be more divergent in their thinking and will like to consider all of the possibilities.
